from what I said on Saturday night. I shall accept the progressive nomination on a progressive platform and shall fight the battle through to the end."

This town is still tingling to-day with that Roosevelt meeting of Saturday night. It makes no difference how cynical one may have come to be regarding the Roosevelt tradition or myth, whichever one pleases to call it.

that meeting was an event.

No one who was in Orchestra Hall when Theodore Roosevelt walked out on the philform will ever forget the surging feelings which stirred up in his heart from the time when the tience first rose and screamed until Roosevelt finished the speech, which was not so much an expression of his own convictions, bitter as they were, as it was a reflection of the wrathful fighting spirit embedied in the men and women before him.

Men who have jeered at Theodore Roosevelt stood up and waved their arms and cheered until their volces were hourse whispers. They walked out into the street after it was over and argued with one another, each in-sisting that the other had not fully understood how big were the feelings loose in the hall.

There was no public notice that the Orchestra Hall meeting was to be held. Word was passed from mouth to mouth two hours before it was held. Michigan avenue was blocked from Adams to Monroe street an hour before the proceedings started. The thing was

There was to be a fight. The message was flashed all over the city wherever Republican convention people happened to be that the battle cry was to be sounded at Orchestra Hall. It has been customary to call political meetings For once the term made itself true. In that Orchestra Hall meeting was the wild howl of covotes scooting through the sage brush, the hiss of the waste places of the north among the palm trees.

One more example, or two, Police-A positive statement came from Roosevelt after some discussion around the headquarters of the possibility that a known "progressive" might receive the Democratic presidential nomination.

ROOSEVELT MAN IS OUSTED FROM NEW COMMITTEE

F. B. Stanley Replaces White, Who Wouldn't Pledge His Support of Taft.

CHICAGO, June 24.-Powell Clayton, tepublican National Committeeman from Arkansas, the oldest member of the committee and whose membership with an interval of four years, extends from 1872, was made temporary chairman of the new Republican National Committee, which convened in executive session to-day in the Collseum. Alvah H. Martin of Virginia, was named temporary secretary.

One of the surprises was the absence of William Allen White of Kansas and the presence of F. B. Stanley of Kansas in his place.

It was explained that Committeeman White had told the Kansas delegation that he was undecided whether he could support the candidate of the convention. President Taft, and Mr. Stanley was ecordingly chosen as State committeein. F. B. Stanley, through onvention campaign, was an ardent Roosevelt man. To-day he declared that he was willing to act with the Na-Walter F. Brown of Ohio also took his seat with the committee. Pefore he entered the room he said no plan of action had been decided on by the Roosevelt members of the National Committee, and that he would sit with the committee and see what was done.

The meeting was brief and adjourned walked over to an utter stranger, banded him a perfectly good $17.50 police model revolver and said. "For naming of a chairman and the conduct heaven's sake take this or I'll begin to shoot."

BALTIMORE, June 24.-Ingenuity of the campaign managers of the Democratic Presidential aspirants is being put to the test to find some novel way to advertise their particular hero of the Almost from the start, the Wilson hatbands became popular. They bore the alliterative motto, Win With Wilson." The Clark men profited by the example and got out hatbands with the words 'Champ Clark" in big red letters. But the Missouri advertisers went further. They got out a specialty for women. These were in reality "Champ Clark" hatbands with several inches length added so as to make them suitable for sashes.

The Wilson forces procured a spacious banquet hall, extending the entire width of the hotel in which to enter-tain the visiting delegations. They re-tained an octette to chirp forth Wilson songs. The latest addition to the decorations of the room is a hand-written copy of the "You-are-right" telegram of Gov. Wilson to William Jennings Bryan last week. The pandwriting was after the style of the Governor and was spread over a sheet of paper ten ELECTRIC "HOUN' DAWG" IN
